Travel safety is one of the burning problems on the Polish-Ukrainian border area, determined by a poor state of roads and vehicles. As the traffic in this region increases, the risk of dangerous situations does too. In this context, the PUFL project is reinforcing the volunteer emergency units of Lubelskie Voivodeship (PL) and Volyn Oblast (UA), updating their equipment and providing training to the rescuers to improve the safety and protection of road users. In Poland, 32 Volunteer Fire Departments are being reinforced and in Ukraine, 15 fire brigades are being created anew. In order to bring appropriate first aid to the victims of road accidents, the units will be equipped with medical rescue bags, vests, pneumatic lifts, lightweight spreaders, hydraulic shears and other tools. The educational campaign “Safe Pedestrian” on first aid and safety road behaviour provided by the fire-fighters in Polish and Ukrainian primary schools will result in higher awareness among the local inhabitants.
