ENI-CROSS BORDER COOPERATION

The project aims to ensure access to quality education for children with special educational needs. To this end, the project partners are teaching new skills to ten trainers from Botosani (Romania) and Balti (Republic of Moldova), who are in charge of passing the knowledge to two hundred teachers from ten different schools in the two countries. A cross-border educational network of school teachers is therefore been created: they are organising conferences, workshops and knowledge exchanges on topics such as best practices in inclusive education and new methods for the integration of children with special educational requirements. As a result, a cross-border educational community is being formed in the Balti-Botosani area, to promote and ensure continuous support in the implementation of more inclusive practices. In parallel, 2,000 parents are receiving counselling services regarding equal access to education. The project results include also a methodological guide and training programme to support teaching staff in the process of designing and implementing inclusive educational activities at school.
